An Introduction to SYSPRO LearnIt

The way we experience and interact with the technologically driven world around us continues to change. However one thing remains the same – our desire and capacity to learn, grow and improve ourselves every day, and because of this the global appetite for technological expertise is increasing at the expense of traditional business skills.

Ask any employee what they want from your company and the answer will inevitably be: “skills-training.” If you don't offer this, there's a strong possibility your people with the most potential will go to a company that does!

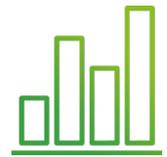

The bottom line: to keep and nurture your best and brightest talent, you need to move from sporadic training to a formal process of perpetual reskilling that you can monitor and evolve.

It has always been SYSPRO's belief that having well-trained people is a company's greatest asset – that living and working in today's digital world is about learning, upskilling and mastering new skills. However, because we all learn differently, we believe that our SYSPRO users need to have total control of their own learning journey and path to ERP career success.

The ongoing training, education and certification your employees can receive through SYSPRO LearnIt will future-proof your company to the benefit of all involved. Whatever your ERP level of expertise or career aspirations, SYSPRO LearnIt combines a digital learning experience as well as instructor-led learning, and offers SYSPRO customers, partners and employees access to a full education and training experience and management system that brings practical self-directed education to life through fully immersive, intuitive learning experiences that are designed to be inspiring and easy-to-use – ensuring they deliver positive results for your business, your employees and your customers.

Top-of-mind education and training considerations for today's business:

Productivity and efficiency

- Trained and knowledgeable employees spend less time on troubleshooting and more time on doing business.
- Streamline and optimize business processes.
- Increase user adoption.

Upskilling

- Ensure your employees' skillsets stay relevant and show your people you care about their careers and their futures.
- Boost morale – employees who have training and development opportunities are happier in their roles and have a positive outlook on their future within the company.
- Keep your best people! If you don't provide them with meaningful training, they'll go to someone who does.

Succession planning

- To attract, retain, and develop future leaders through well-targeted skills-development efforts.
- To build the bench-strength of your organization in order to ensure its long-term health, growth and stability.

Precise recruiting measures

- Enable your talent management process by identifying key roles and mapping out ways to ensure the organization has the right people with the right skills, capabilities, and experiences, in the right place at the right time.
- Provide a benchmark for recruitment. Skills development is one of the most important aspects when considering user-uptake and safeguarding your ERP investment.

What is SYSPRO LearnIt?

Easy-to-use platform that offers a solution for every role, schedule and budget

SYSPRO LearnIt encompasses facilitated training (virtual and physical), online self-paced learning and customized training. The platform on which online learning takes place is SYSPRO LearnIt Online and it is hosted by HowNow. Learners also have the opportunity to obtain SYSPRO certification through physical classroom training, subscribing to SYSPRO Labs or through SYSPRO Pay-As-You-Go (PAYG).

SYSPRO LearnIt meets your business requirements by providing you with training offerings that are both cost-effective and convenient:

- Solutions that work for your entire organization including every role, schedule, and budget.
- The choice of training at your site, in one of our regional offices, or in a virtual classroom environment.
- Flexible payment options whereby you can purchase a subscription to our online platform SYSPRO LearnIt Plus or our Pay-As-You-Go options to purchase only the courses you need.

Your organization will benefit from SYSPRO's comprehensive training options, whether this is during an implementation, version upgrade, on-boarding new employees or investing in future growth and optimization.

Why SYSPRO LearnIt?

Safeguarding your ERP Investment

Skills development is one of the most important aspects when considering user-uptake and safeguarding your ERP investment.

So while buying SYSPRO's ERP solution is an investment in your systems, employees and, ultimately, the future of your business, it's just as important to remember that ensuring that future is about more than just buying and implementing the latest software solution – it's about empowering the people to learn how to use it in a way that is effective and engaging to them.

All companies invest in SYSPRO training when they first implement the solution. However training needs arise continuously as your business grows and evolves and as the use of SYSPRO steps through the next phases, including upgrades, ongoing employee turnover, cross-training and retraining, and ultimately advanced uses of the solution.

The SYSPRO LearnIt experience

The SYSPRO LearnIt experience for companies and managers

Learning doesn't just build human capital, it also builds organizational capital. As employees learn their jobs and the system better, the more proficient they become in their individual roles and more efficiently they can collectively help the business run.

While learners will remain inspired and excited about the ongoing possibilities for learning and development, you can rely on comprehensive, practical course materials, and expert-led training sessions with the ongoing aim of advancing knowledge (and careers), teaching new skills, or meeting certification requirements.

- Onsite, virtual training and customized courses are all offered to cater for the different stages of SYSPRO users and roles in your organization:
- An online platform recommended for continued learning and upskilling within the organization.
- Virtual course training highly recommended for users who are new to the software, i.e. during the implementation cycle or when on-boarding a new employee.
- Customized courses recommended when implementing a new process or optimizing an existing process.
- Access to a full learning experience and management system that allows you to administer, measure and monitor the progress of each user.
- Brings ongoing operational improvements and cost savings through proficient inspired users who collectively enable the business run more efficiently.
- Pay-As-You-Go facility allows for the continuous internal and external educating, informing and training of users who will deliver positive results for you, your company and your customers.

SYSPRO LearnIt training options

Our Online Platform – SYSPRO LearnIt Online

With a focus on continuous learning and improvement, SYSPRO LearnIt Online is our online learning platform. SYSPRO LearnIt Online provides access to all SYSPRO's training offerings. Here, you will find educational material in a variety of formats which you can use for self-paced, self-directed learning or to supplement the instructor-led training we provide. SYSPRO LearnIt Online provides a complete learning experience, enabling companies to measure and monitor the educational progress of each SYSPRO user.

SYSPRO LearnIt Online (Paid) provides for a paid subscription. Through this subscription learners can access e-learning courses and course bundles covering each SYSPRO module, as well as role-based certification paths. The subscription also provides you with the ability to track and manage learner progress, as well as access to a Company Administrator profile.

SYSPRO Labs (Paid) allows customers to purchase access to a virtual machine. Users can then practice transacting in SYSPRO based on the content covered in the course.

SYSPRO Pay-As-You-Go (PAYG). SYSPRO caters for those learners and employers that wish to purchase courses on an ad-hoc basis. Contact your regional office for more information.

Instructor-led Training

With a focus on users who are new to the software or to a specific area, SYSPRO can provide instructor-led classes virtually or physically in a classroom environment. Led by certified SYSPRO trainers, these live interactive sessions provide a personal learning experience.

Virtual sessions are held online and led by an instructor. Tutorials are provided so you can practice on your test environment.

Physical classroom sessions are held in SYSPRO offices or on-site at the the customer offices. An instructor leads you through the concepts and you work through hands-on exercises using desktops which we provide, and which are loaded with our outdoors company training data.

This training is typically more generic and focusses on the transaction flow and is aimed at end users, rather than process owners.

Customer-Tailored Training

Recommended when implementing a new process or optimizing an existing process, SYSPRO can tailor a unique training plan for your organization, based on your company's roles and processes. This customized training allows for flexibility to cover specific topics or to structure the training in a workshop format.

Our customized training aims at providing both training and consultation to the attendees, including advice on how to incorporate a new module or feature into their existing processes, or how to improve on current use of the system. This type of training usually requires a discovery session for the consultant to learn more about your current processes and goals.
